The Power Plant Gallery is located inside the American Tobacco Campus in the Power Plant building. Below is the best accessible route to avoid the steep hill and uneven surfaces. We recommend, after dropping off any passengers in need of an accessible entrance, that you park in either the North or South parking decks at American Tobacco Campus. Parking is free for the first two hours (8am-5pm). Additional parking information at ATC can be found on their website: americantobaccocampus.com/parking.

For further assistance and accessibility information call at 919-660-3622 or email us at powerplantgallery@duke.edu. You can also use this information to access the Full Frame Theater.

1. Drop off at 334 Blackwell Street. Look for the large Cuban Revolution sign and the Reed Strickland Building sign. There is City parking along this street, but I don’t recommend it for any length of time. This drop off point may be inaccessible if there is a ball game on.

2. Enter the lobby and turn right towards the elevator. Press Level 1 to head down to the Security Desk Level.
3. You are now in the lobby next to the American Tobacco Security Desk. On the far side of the lobby you will see glass doors that lead to the interior courtyard of American Tobacco Campus. Proceed through the doors and turn right.

4. Proceed up the ramp. The Power Plant Gallery is to the left. (For Full Frame Theater skip to Step 6)

5. Enter the Power Plant building through double doors closest to the Power Plant sign. Proceed around the corner and you will see the Power Plant Gallery.

6. For Full Frame Theater proceed to the doors under the marquee. Enter the lobby/Boiler Room, and head to the back of the building to the theater entrance.
